Promotes the Arts

PECAN, Inc. Progressive Education of Children in the Arts Network, Inc. is a non-profit organization that promotes the arts for youth. The mission of PECAN is to aid and support the development of children into confident human beings through participation in music and the arts.

Music and art for all youth are documented to be meaningful, purposeful, and productive activities that can help change a child's life forever by developing rhythm and structure, therefore helping the child gain confidence and self-worth.

The participation of youth in the arts offsets the attraction that would otherwise be met by alcohol, tobacco, and or drugs. Music and art therefore minimize or obviates the desire to resort to these substances.

PECAN, Inc. has been accomplishing it's goal of promoting the arts in youth since 2001 through a variety of activities: Celebration of Children held at The Forum in Harrisburg in July, Art Day Camp held in Shellsville in June, Wheelchair Dance held in Hershey, and Caitlin's Smiles which continues to spread the creative arts for children in hospitals. These activities will be highlighted with more information in this newsletter.

"I have long believed in the important role that music and the arts can play in helping students learn, achieve and succeed. Education in the theater, dance and the visual arts is one of the most creative ways we have to find the gold that is buried just beneath the surface. They (children) have enthusiasm for life, a spark of creativity and vivid imaginations that need training.... training that prepares them to become confident young men and women." -US Secretary of Education, Richard W. Riley

"Studies have shown that the arts can raise long-term academic achievement, decrease drop-out rates, and lay a foundation for future participation in the work force." - Soulia Antonio, President, VSA Arts, Washington, D. C.

What is Celebration of Children?

Celebration of Children is presented by PECAN, Inc. (Progressive Education of Children in the Arts Network, Inc.) Children up to 18 years of age are chosen from the area to perform their talent in dance, instrumental, gymnastics, voice, speaking and other specialties including creative arts. The performance showcases talented young artists in the community, bringing awareness of the importance of art to youth, and encouraging the inclusiveness of all children in the arts. Young artists also display their drawings, paintings, photography, sculpture and more at the art display in the lobby. The Allegro Award, Crescendo Award, Arpeggio Award, and Media Award are given out at this performance.

Wheelchair Dancers Experience the Joy of Movement.

Wheelchair Dance, founded by Nancy Ehrlich, Director of Celebration of Children and Board member of PECAN, Inc., began in June of 2005 with the help of her daughter Elizabeth. After years of dancing and then an accident that left her partially paralyzed and unable to dance, Nancy began researching wheelchair dancing on the web. Wheelchair dancing tones muscles, improves circulation, increases awareness of spatial relations, and increases socialization and self awareness while having fun! The goal is to make dance and the joy of movement accessible to everyone.

TASK - Theatre Arts for Special Kids

Ben Gallaher Wins Arpeggio Award

Ben Gallaher is a junior at Belmont University in Nashville, Tenn., where he majors in entertainment industry studies and performs weekly. "My music path is probably a little different than most. I do not have formal music training, but I love to play guitar, write songs, and perform. I love to entertain and see fans respond to my music. My message to young people is a message I'm still living: Never give up! What do musicians do when times get tough or things don't go your way? You write a song about it, and that's what I did. We all have talents and gifts, and young people can learn from people who have overcome the odds. If you believe in yourself, then you'll make it." Ben Gallaher, an Eagle Scout, embodies the talent, character, and determination that young people can relate to and learn from."

COC Welcomes South Side Steppers

We are pleased to welcome the South Side Steppers Drill Team, from York, to perform in the COC this year. These spirited steppers are in the The Crispus Attucks Rising STARS (Striving To Achieve Remarkable Success) Youth and Family Program, which provides many after-school and summer educational, recreational, and social responsibility opportunities for youth 5 to 18 years old. "We must empower our young people to reach their fullest potential, so that they are prepared when the baton is passed to them. Our goal is not to 'fix' youth, but to develop them."

McGinley Irish Dancers

The McGinley School of Irish Dance, the largest Irish dance school in central PA, is under the direction of Lena McGinley-Crosier and Annie McGinley. It began as a performance Irish dance troop in January 2000. Since that time its students have won eight Irish Open Team Championships. Thanks for performing at COC and good luck with the World Championships in Ireland!
